

Wailuku Man Thinks Austria Out Of War

Citizen Of Hungary Believes Revolution Will Complete Dual Monarchy's Downfall—Large Element Not In Sympathy With Germany

That Austria is to all practical purposes out of the war for good, is the expressed belief of George A. Falk, of Wailuku, a native of Hungary, who came to America just before the great war broke out in Europe. Mr. Falk came to the Islands as a soldier in the United States Army, and for over two years past has been in the employ of the Maui Publishing Company, in capacity of foreman of the mechanical department.

Falk was a printer in Budapest. He also served a term of enforced service in the Austrian army, and following that a prison sentence for writing a criticism of conditions as he had found them in the army. He was in a position up to the time he left of knowing pretty thoroughly the sentiment of the people towards their rulers, and basing his present opinions on this knowledge he believes that reports of dissatisfaction in the Austrian army have in no sense been exaggerated.

"The army that Austria has been driving against the Italians has had no heart in the struggle", Falk declares. "For the greater part it is composed of people heretofore not unfriendly to the Italians, and these have been fighting unwillingly. Now that they have been thrown back they can never be whipped into shape for any more real fighting. I do not believe Austria will be able hereafter to play any important part in the war."

People In Distress

"I am also sure that conditions among the people of Austria and Hungary are even more desperate than have been reported. I have read in a Magyar paper that the people of Budapest are going barefooted in great numbers, a thing that had never been known before the war. And yet while I was still in Hungary big strikes and riots were very frequent as protests against various forms of oppression. The socialists are very strong in Hungary, and well organized in spite of all the government was able to do to prevent. The socialist organization in Budapest was so perfect that a force of 100,000 men could be mobilized in two or three hours, and this without the police having any previous knowledge. There is no doubt in my mind that strikes and food riots are making the Austrians much trouble at the present time."

Revolution May End War

In fact Falk believes that the war will not last over the coming winter. He looks for a tremendous revolution first in Austria-Hungary and then in Germany itself. The reports of the past week of rebellion among the troops in Hungary he thinks is but the forerunner of the great upheaval soon to come.

Falk, who made his declaration of intention to be come an American citizen shortly after he came to America, has been prevented from completing his naturalization on account of America's entry into the war. Through a recent act of congress relative to naturalization of enemy alien subjects who have served in the U. S. Army, he hopes, however, to be permitted soon to take his oath of allegiance to this country.

HUN POLICY OF VIOLENCE HAVING BIG BACK KICK

(Associated Press.)

Zurich, May 27.—In the opinion of the Vienna Arbeiter Zeitung, "the Prussian faith in violence has once more been proved a vain superstition."

"The Prussian Junker class," the paper continues, "and the German coal and iron magnates, accustomed to rule their own people with a brutal violence, have inoculated a great part of the German nation with a superstitious faith in violence. They know of no other source of strength except violence."

"The peace by violence concluded in the East was also to have captured the enemies in the West; the blows of the German arms were to compel the western foe to negotiate. The change of sentiment in England shows how false was this calculation. It is precisely the victories at the eastern front that have strengthened the will for war in England."

Two Good Ball Games Played Last Sunday

In a high-grade game of ball at the Wailuku park, last Sunday, the Wailuku team sustained its reputation by defeating the Puunene's by the neat score of 5 to 2. Baldwin, pitching for the Wailukus, fanned 9; while Wicke struck out 7. The latter allowed but 2 bases on balls, to Baldwin's 1. The game was interesting all through and showed some pretty team work on the part of both teams.

In the junior league the Orientals put it over the Cubs by a score of 9 to 6. The game was somewhat loose, but made up in excitement what it may have lacked in science.

Next Sunday's Games

The games for next Sunday will be between the Wailukus and the Paia's, and the Paia Juniors and Cubs. Both games promise to be good ones.

The teams have been somewhat benefited by the home coming of a number of school boys from Honolulu. Among these are Henry Pogue, Clarence Baldwin, Ruben Cockett and Eddie Rodriguez. These four are all with the Wailuku team.

The games still suffer from small attendance, possibly due to so many men being away in the national guard and through the draft. The quality of the playing deserves much better support than it has been getting.

1918 Pineapple Pack Will Break Record

A record summer pineapple pack of approximately 3,500,000 cases, of which probably 500,000 cases will be taken by the United States for the use of its soldiers, sailors and other military and naval attaches, is indicated by figures now in the hands of A. H. Tarleton, secretary of the Hawaiian Pineapple Packers' Association. The island of Oahu is expected to produce approximately 2,700,000 cases, Maui 375,000 cases and Kauai 150,000 cases.

The best previous record for the pineapple industry in the Hawaiian Islands was made in 1915, when 2,669,616 cases were packed. The crop of 1916 yielded 2,609,483 cases, and that of last year 2,607,031 cases. The 1918 crop, it is estimated, will make a difference of approximately $14,000,000 in the trade balance of Hawaii.

The price for pineapples is expected to touch record figures this year, especially if the United States government decides to increase its initial requisition of 475,000 cases, as will probably be done. The packers, who desire in every way to aid the successful prosecution of the war and the efforts to preserve the health and good spirits of our fighting men, have welcomed the decree that the government shall have first call on their products, and will cheerfully accept the price which may be set by the federal food dictators, feeling sure that the latter will allow a fair working profit to be made.

The vast majority of the pines composing this year's crop, which has already begun to move to the mainland, will be of the Smooth Cayenne variety, with here and there a shipment of Hilos, which are now being cultivated in considerable quantities on Maui and Kauai. Arrangements are now being made for the transportation of the crop and the packers anticipate no embarrassments in that direction.—Star-Bulletin.
